

Mid-Winter Greetings from McMurdo Station.

The women and men of McMurdo Station send warmest mid-winter wishes to colleagues around this frozen continent. We will pause to celebrate Mid-Winter's Day 2004 and acknowledge the sacrifice and courage needed to abide the Antarctic night. Winter in Antarctica is a uniquely challenging human experience, and we are proud to be sharing mid-winter celebrations and the night sky with our wintering friends at all Antarctic stations.

We wish you a safe and happy expedition.